

Mandy Tu, Ph.D. is an plant ecologist and botanist, specializing in invasive species prevention and management, and the restoration of wetland and riparian habitats. She is based out of Portland, Oregon and has worked as a technical science specialist for The Nature Conservancy's Global Invasive Species Team, has advised on a variety of weed management and restoration projects, and is adjunct faculty at Portland State University and at Washington State University, Vancouver. She has a B.S. in Botany from the University of Washington and a Ph.D. in Plant Biology from the University of California at Davis, and enjoys botanizing, gardening, making homebrew, and riding her bike.