

Valerie Morrill is currently a consultant and a senior advisor at the Redlands Institute following retirement as the Sustainable Range Program (SRP) Manager at U.S. Army Yuma Proving Ground, Arizona. Her federal career spanned 30 years beginning with the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service before transferring to the U.S. Army as a wildlife biologist and conservation manager prior to the move to the Army's SRP. She is a past recipient of both the U.S. Army and the Department of Defense Individual Natural Resources Management Awards. In addition to her consulting work, Ms. Morrill is currently active as a Arizona Wildlife Federation Regional Director, as a member of the Arizona Game and Fish Commission's Conservationist Committee, and maintains memberships in organizations such as the National Military Fish and Wildlife Association, the Arizona Native Plant Society and the Southwest Vegetation Management Association. She is a biological sciences graduate of Northern Arizona University in Flagstaff.